Problem of the Ancients — Phrase of Today

"Not Made to Die"

Speaking before the Arkansas Farm Bureau's annual convention in Little Rock Monday night John Temple Graves, 2nd, distinguished columnist for the Birmingham News and Age-Herald, applied to agriculture this significant title: "Not Made to Die." Any good phrase will haunt a newspaperman—but I didn't let this one haunt me very long.

Funds For Red Cross Fall Off Considerably

Only $30 Is Reported by Chairmen for Wednesday Drive

Only $30.10 was reported here Wednesday as Red Cross donations continued to slow up considerably. This brings the total to $691.55 with the quota set at $1,200.

County donations are not expected to offset this shortage and chairman expressed the belief that the county would fall short of the $1,200 quota.

All the 12 years I have been in Hope a framed letter has hung in The Star office. It is on the stationery of a great newspaper, and signed by an editor famous in the generation that knew John Temple Graves' father as one of the South's best orators.

The letter is from the late C. P. J. Mooney, editor of the Memphis Commercial Appeal. Mr. Mooney wrote it August 17, 1926, and sent it to me while I was editor of the El Dorado Daily News. The closing paragraphs of that letter said:

"I want to see America so that our people will remain on their land. Our industrial development is separating too many of our people into industrial pursuits. Industry dies, but the soil never dies if it is cared for."

"I am going away for a little vacation. It is the first I have taken for several years. Yours truly, C. P. J. MOONEY."

But he waited too long for that "little vacation"—60 days later Mr. Mooney died at his desk in the Commercial Appeal office.

I mention this not to suggest that young Mr. Graves has borrowed any substantial part of an older editor's substance—but merely to show how all men struggling with the common problems of one section of the nation arrive eventually at the same line of thought.

The specific phrase, "Industry dies, but the soil never dies if it is cared for," may belong to Mooney—but the idea itself is old; Mooney was a great editor simply because he had the gift of reading history and refurbishing it with new phrases.

And yet, the fact that our agricultural problems are so very old should give us a greater appreciation of the problems confronting farm leaders today. For agriculture is the oldest occupation on earth, and regardless of 20th century industry, still employs more people than any other.

And agriculture, therefore, must have the best leadership and the best organization that the people of this nation can give it.

Personal Tax List Published

Published in Today's Daily Star, Again Next Week

Hempstead county's list of delinquent personal taxpayers is published as a paid legal notice in today's daily Star, and the second and final publication will be made next Wednesday.

The list totals in the neighborhood of 2,000 names, slightly larger than a year ago.

In addition to personal taxes due, the delinquent taxpayers are subject to a penalty amounting to 10 per cent of the tax total, and costs of 20 cents each.

Total additional costs of about $1.50 will be saved by the taxpayers if they settle at the office of Sheriff and Collector C. E. Baker in the Hempstead county courthouse before the end of the year, Deputy Frank Ward said Wednesday.

The delinquent personal tax list was closed out by the sheriff's office.

Four Cotton Plans Possible, Says Wickard

Secretary of Agriculture Addresses Arkansas Farm Bureau

LITTLE ROCK — Confessing that "I have not decided which is the best answer," Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard outlined four possible solutions to the problem of maintaining cotton prices in the face of declining foreign markets here Tuesday.

"I do not know," he told a large crowd attending the final program of the Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation's annual convention at the Auditorium Tuesday afternoon. "That we must continue to get a fair return for cotton and that we must bring the income from cotton as near to parity as we can."

"I want to make it plain that in this time of emergency, there is no thought of withdrawing needed support of cotton. If ever cotton growers needed help they need it now. Yet, it is only common sense to be looking ahead just in case things don't turn out as we would like to see them turn out."

The four possible solutions as outlined by the secretary, included:

1. Outright governmental price-fixing.
2. Raising the present loan rates on cotton.
3. Appropriation of money to make up the difference between the selling price and the price which farmers deserve.
4. The income certificate plan, which he described as "a streamlined version of the processing tax."

Regardless of the course decided upon, Mr. Wickard said "there are certain things we can and should do. We must continue to restore the fertility of our soil, and feed for home use. Like other sections, the South needs to make certain adjustments and it can make them in a way that it will avoid creating new problems in other regions."

Adjustments are needed," he added, "that will mean better living; the ability to get from the land the things which make for better living."

Discussing briefly the four possible remedies which have been suggested but emphasizing that he still has an "open mind" on the problem, Secretary Wickard said:

"Price-fixing has some very definite disadvantages. Price-fixing means regimentation. If it is to work, all farmers must go along and all processors, too, the government would say how much to plant and how much to sell. The farmers would listen—and obey."

"From the beginning, we have worked on the theory that farmers would agree to co-operate—but that they could not be driven. To the average farmer, co-operation with his fellow farmers is one thing; doing the gosse step on orders from Washington, is another."

Several Proposals Possible
Mr. Wickard pointed out that the present loan rate could be increased without the regimentation necessitated by price-fixing, but the high loan course also has "obvious disadvantages."

"If we adopt a high loan policy," the secretary said, "we must have a sizable export subsidy to get our cotton out of the country. The higher the loan, the higher the subsidy required."

"I am not certain that sufficient money to maintain our share of the exports of cotton could be appropriated if the loan were raised. The money required would be subject to the same uncertainty of other appropriations. And what would happen if the loan were raised and we found that our export market, or most of it, is gone for good?"

"I think we all must agree that congress, under the Roosevelt administration, has been pretty good to farmers," the secretary said in discussing payments to farmers.

"It has consistently authorized the money necessary for effective farm programs, but I am not sure we can expect congress to increase appropriations in the amount necessary to get farmers a completely satisfactory income."

The certificate plan would involve payment by manufacturers of a per-pound tax on cotton processed for domestic consumption. The tax would be paid direct to the farm through the purchase of certificates which would be given to the producers in proportion to their production of cotton, he explained.

"The processors, or most of them anyhow, have always opposed the tax on cotton," Mr. Wickard said. "I know that the tax is bothersome, as is any other tax, although the

First Safety Meet Proves Successful

Packed House Grooms Speakers at City Hall Tuesday Night

The safety program, the first of its kind ever held in the state, at city hall auditorium Tuesday night proved to be the most successful meeting that the Chamber of Commerce has ever helped promote. The large auditorium was filled.

The new safety program combines all individual safety activities carried on by Hope police, schools, industries, and highways, into one group. This is believed to be the only program of this type in the state.

Booth, Supervisor of Traffic and Safety division of the state, and Roland Humble, state policeman, made talks on safety at all city schools.

At the night session E. S. Leonard, SCS head, presided over the meeting in the absence of Guy E. Bayse.

Outstanding features of the program was the introduction of student patrol members in uniform by Miss Beryl Henry and the awarding of certificates of merits to industrial plants.

A. Gilbert, 66, Buried Sunday

Final Rites Held For Life-Long Hempstead Man

Funeral services for Augustus Gilbert, 66, life-long Hempstead resident who died at his home near Fulton Saturday of an heart attack, were held at Old Liberty church Sunday with burial in Westmoreland cemetery.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, Paul of Kansas City, Kan., and Roy of Fulton Rt. 1, and several brothers and sisters.

This is Gerald Reyenga, 17, of Emmet Route One, who on November 12 at Kansas City, Mo., was declared the Star Farmer of America out of 230,000 competing Future Farmers of America. Gerald is the son of Mrs. Gerald Reyenga, and the family is claimed jointly by Hempstead and Nevada counties, as the county line runs through the homestead.

The picture, made in The Star office on Gerald's return from Kansas City, shows the boy wearing on his coat lapel the highest medal award given any farm youth in the nation. Gerald is displaying the $500 check he won from the Kansas City Weekly Star — while below him stands a large framed picture of a modern streamlined train presented him by Rock Island railroad.

Gerald Reyenga while in Kansas City attended both the Future Farmers of America convention and the American Royal Livestock Show.

He is a freshman at Arkansas Tech at Russellville, having been voted an all-expense scholarship there by the State Board of Vocational Education.

Gerald attended Laneburg Central High School, Nevada county, four years, and the vocational agriculture instructor who trained him there is B. W. Chambers. Mr. Chambers has a habit of turning out champions. It was only a year or so ago that The Star carried a picture of Mr. Chambers and his state champion Laneburg meat-judging team.

Italy Believed Ready to Quit Koritza Base

Hungary Becomes Partner to Axis; Turkey Warns Bulgaria

BITOLJ —(P)—Italian army trucks, presumably carrying supplies, were seen leaving Koritza Wednesday, as Greek heavy artillery and British bombing planes bombarded the area, and reports were strengthened that the Fascists were ready to abandon their vital Albanian base.

Batteries on Mount Morava shelled the city from the southeast and Greek infantrymen were reported advancing along the western slope.

Suez Bombed
ROME —(P)—Strong Greek attacks on Italian forces southeast of Koritza in Albania and on both sides of the Kalibaki Highway in Epirus, northwest Greece, have been repulsed with heavy Greek losses, the Italian high command reported Wednesday.

Striking at the Suez canal, eastern gate to the Mediterranean, Italian bombers Monday night attacked sea-planes and ships in the harbor of Great Bitter Lake, a wide basin in the canal itself, the high command reported.

Stefani, Italian news agency, reported that a violent fire broke out on one merchant ship in the lake.

Hungary Joins Axis
VIENNA —(P)—Hungary became a full-fledged partner in the mighty totalitarian allies Wednesday by signing up with the German-Italian-Japanese alliance.

Thus, with a lightning-fast diplomatic stroke, Germany stretched the Nazi military avenue 250 miles further into southeast Europe—toward Greece, Turkey and the Suez canal. That further extensions would come shortly was indicated when Germany's foreign minister announced that other powers would shortly join the Axis alliance.

Adolf Hitler himself, surrounded by the highest military and diplomatic advisors, witnessed the ceremony.

There was no intimation from any sources on how soon any military operations might follow these Nazi diplomatic strides toward the Balkans, but scarcely an observer doubted that such a step would be taken.

Turkey Warns Bulgaria
ANKARA —(P)—Sources close to the Turkish government said Wednesday that Turkey regarded the passage of German troops through Bulgaria as harmful to Turkish interests.

They said that Turkey would refuse to approve such a movement, even though Germany might guarantee that Turkey in no way would be involved.

Moreover, if Bulgaria herself makes any move toward the Mediterranean Turkey would consider herself bound to "take measures" the sources added.

Auto Licenses Payable Now

Deadline Dec. 31; No Authority to Make Extension

The following statement by Governor Carl E. Bailey was released from Little Rock Wednesday by the State Department of Revenues:

Honorable Z. M. McCarrall, Commissioner Revenue Department: Through reports from your Department, the Comptroller's Office, the Highway Department, and the press, it has been brought to my attention license tag fees is lagging most lamentably.

Unquestionably your Department must collect somewhat in excess of $2,000,000 between now and December 31 from automobile owners and operators. Each day that procrastination is indulged adds to the enormity of your problem in serving such a vast number of people, and doubtless will result in many having to pay penalty for no other reason than sheer neglect.

May I not therefore respectfully insist that you and your staff redouble your efforts and energies to bring about an accelerated collection of these tag fees. This will be in the interest of the State's finances and beneficial to those who must pay the fees now or pay them after December 31 with penalty added.

'North West Mounted Police Is the Newest Super Western

Cecil B. DeMille, master Producer-Director, has assembled the greatest cast of stars ever to appear in any of his productions for his new picture, "North West Mounted Police," which will have its first local showing on Wednesday, November 21, at the Saenger Theatre, with Gary Cooper and Madeleine Carroll in the top starring roles.

An epic-sized tale of blazing and seen fit to place such starring players as Paulette Goddard, Preston Foster, Robert Preston, Gail Patrick, Lynn Overman, George Bancroft, Lon Chaney, Jr., and Walter Hampden in important roles, rounding out a top cast which ranks with any ever seen in one motion picture. Moreover, because of the backgrounds and the importance of the story, he has filmed the picture entirely in Technicolor, the first time DeMille has ever made a complete picture in the medium.

The import of the story can only be judged from the fact that it has its basis in a real revolt against the Canadian government back in 1855 by a tribe of people known as the Metis, made up of half-breed voyageurs and the like, and a murderers group if there ever was one. The revolt of the Metis, as a matter of record, amounted to a Civil War which almost split Canada asunder, and might have if it had not been for the courage of five hundred loyal Mount-Police.

Uprising Starts
Unfolding of the narrative based on this revolt starts as one might therefore expect with the organization of the Metis under three leaders, Duroc (Tamiroff), Corbeau (George Bancroft), and Riel (Francis McDonald). When word reaches the Mounted that the Metis are organizing at Batoche, two Policemen, Sergeant Jim Brett (Foster) and Ronnie Logan (Preston) are sent to investigate.

Brett receives the Metis' demands, and when his life is threatened by the Metis, Ronnie's sister, April (Carroll), nurse at the settlement, comes to the rescue by announcing the birth of a son to one of the half-breeds. During this scene, it is also established that Brett is in love with April, while Ronnie is interested in Louvette, Indian girl who is Corbeau's daughter.

Greater impetus is provided for the narrative a few days later at Fort Carlton, the Mounted's operating center. First, Dusty Rivers (Cooper), a Texas Ranger, arrives on the scene, and states that he has a warrant for a murderer who has fled to Canada. Then April rides into the Fort one morning, driving a wagon. In it are two Mounted Policemen—one mortally wounded, the other dead. It doesn't take long to establish that they were killed by Corbeau, the man Dusty is after. And, at this point, it becomes evident that Dusty has romantic notions about April, too.

In a series of swiftly moving events, Brett, Dusty and McDuff (Overman), a specially sworn in Constable, move to prevent Corbeau from persuading the Cree Indians to join the Metis. Corbeau has a strong argument—Gatling gun, but Dusty dares Corbeau to tackle him with each man free to draw—and Corbeau backs down. The result of the dicker is that Corbeau will bring him the red coats of the Mounted before three suns have set.

The Mounties Ambushed
With the small force of fifty Mounted at Fort Carlton still threatened dangerously, Inspector Cabot (Montagu Love) decides to go after large stores of abandoned ammunition at Duck Lake. Suspecting an ambush, he sends Ronnie and another Mounted Policeman to a deserted cabin half a mile away to wait for the Metis. Meanwhile, April has heard of Batoche of an ambush planned for the Mounted. She sends Louvette to warn Ronnie and the Mounted.

Louvette, however, is only interested in Ronnie. She tricks him to a cabin, where he is set upon by Indians, his arms bound. The Mounted, unwarned, ride into an ambush, with thousands of the Metis and Corbeau, blazing away with the Gatling, to wipe out the Mounted entirely.

The Mounted's brave stand, the vindication of Ronnie's honor by Dusty, the capture of Corbeau and the other leaders of the Metis, and the winning of April, bring the picture to its conclusion.

Notable in this picture are the fine performances of Miss Carroll and Cooper, and of Paulette Goddard, who is outstanding as Louvette. Advance word has it that she's a cleaving terror of an Indian girl, and wonderful in her love scenes with Robert Preston. And, naturally, the work of the Business Feels Chilling Draft

Sales, Credit Not Likely to Be Affected

By NEA Service

Retail merchants, personal loan companies and banks handling small loans have a new worry these days.

Will conscription cut into sales volume, discouraging purchases even by those who may never be called for service?

Will it mean widespread defaults on installment contracts and loan agreements?

The answers to these questions may well mean the difference between slump and boom for a large segment of U. S. business.

Most of the 17,000,000 men of conscription age are in the active buying class, in the stage where they want clothes and radios and cars. Most of them are installment buyers.

Merchants now find the picture less discouraging than it appeared at first glance. They know that the chances are about 20 to 1 against any potential draftee's conscription up until mid-1941. And by the time a second contingent is ready for training, the first conscripts will have returned to private life.

Prominent stores in some of the larger cities are taking advantage of the odds against conscription by making unusual offers to draft eligibles. Buy on time now, they say, and if you are called before Jan. 15 all your payments will be refunded and the goods you return will be donated to welfare organizations. Competitors call it smart merchandising at small risk.

Retail Trade Shows Gains
Effects on total retail trade are bound to be slight, with a maximum of one out of 130 of the population called to the colors at any one time. Beyond that, however, merchants point to the trend in sales now prevailing as sufficient guarantee that conscription will never hold down volume.

Payrolls and employment are substantially higher than a year ago; retail sales are from 2 to 20 per cent greater in various sections of the country. Government experts confidently predict a gain of 10 per cent in store volume to continue through the winter. This is net gain after any possible inroads caused by the draft.

One of the biggest credit bureaus in the country made a down-to-earth analysis of its particular problem. Taking at random 1000 time payment or charge account applications from each of two days' regular flow, it found that 84 per cent were from buyers not subject to the draft, 12 per cent from married men or others near the upper age limits, and less than 4 per cent from single men between 21 and 31. At the time of the survey, those ages were planned for conscription.

The big mail order stores are excellent examples of the merchandising attitude because they run into all the angles, from that of the haberdasher to the tire dealer. So far, they players shows the DeMille touch, a surety of movement as the camera captures magnificent backgrounds, exciting horseback riding—all the color, action and romance to be expected in a picture of this scope.

22 Resolutions on Public Policy Are Adopted by Arkansas Farm Bureau

LITTLE ROCK — The resolutions of the Arkansas Farm Bureau at its state convention in Little Rock Monday and Tuesday, some of which may have an important bearing on state and national farm policies, were adopted in the following order:

No. 1—Endorsing the program of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

No. 2—Statement of policy, endorsing the program as outlined by President R. E. Short of Brinkley in his annual report, including the need for unity in American agriculture; the danger of over-concentration of authority in the hands of "any group with particular reference to the agricultural credit system; the necessity for educational institutions to devote ample time to the economic side of agriculture; educational institutions free from political control, and an appeal for an active "interest of all groups in bringing agriculture's broad program to successful conclusion."

No. 3—Approving the broad principles of the Agricultural Adjustment Act but favoring the following specific changes: An act by Congress providing adequate money for the payment of conservation and soil building operations and parity payments on an equitable basis "to the end that producers in special crop areas will receive the same percentage of parity income that the producers of the five basic crops are accorded under the provision of the present AAA; the setting up of county soil-building goals and to permit farmers who have exceeded their goals to share in funds uncovered by other farmers; opposing further limit on AAA payments; and exemptions on Sea Island cotton be extended to eastern Arkansas.

No. 4—Endorsing the program of the Rural Electrification program; urging the connection of the Grand River Authority with the proposed hydro-electric dam at Norfolk; co-operation with the National Defense Commission, the REA, and state and local agencies interested in procuring national defense industries for Arkansas, and co-operation in obtaining further reductions in power rates.

No. 5—A state-wide system of education providing a high school education for every rural boy and girl.

No. 6—Urging the co-ordination of the several agricultural agencies, that the "Extension Service in the states and counties be utilized as the educational and co-ordinating agency in planning and carrying out all production and economic agricultural programs, exclusive of their regulatory and enforcement aspects, in co-operation with former committees or other co-operating groups and the adequate funds be transferred to the Extension Service to provide the necessary personnel for such service."

No. 7—Authorizing sustaining members in county bureaus by the voluntary payment of $10 annually instead of the usual annual $2.50 dues. All memberships will be identical as possible members of the fifth column.

Confused Aliens Biggest Threat
One of the weaknesses of American democracy is the lack of understanding so many foreign-born Americans seem to have of what democracy is doing and can do for them. I talk to many of them and they seem to be confused about the American way of life which nobody has fully explained to them. The leaders of the totalitarian states know of their ignorance and trade on it by pouring propaganda in their ears, telling them that democracy can do nothing for them.

I think these bewildered aliens and naturalized citizens are more dangerous to the inner defense of America than the few subversive agents of foreign governments who may possibly be here.

For this reason I hope that the registration of aliens, which continues until December 26 of this year, will furnish the United States government with the information it needs to understand some of this country, and to help make him more aware of the blessings of democracy.

Knowledge of all the facts is essential to defense as many countries have found out too late! And the defense of America is the most important job in the world today for all of us who love freedom, whether we are citizens or aliens.

Dictators fight with words as well as guns. That is why it is so gratifying to see that the alien registration, now being conducted by the Department of Justice through the United States post office, is being handled like a matter between host and guest.

The dictators are pouring out propaganda intended to cause suspicion and hostility between the different racial groups in the United States. They would like to drive a wedge between Americans and their alien visitors, but the courteous treatment Uncle Sam is giving aliens when they come to post offices to register is making friends of them instead of HOLLYWOOD — Today Paris is a destroyed city.

No stones have been dislodged from the Arc de Triomphe. The grand boulevards look the same. Notre Dame still dreams in the misty sunshine with the pigeons flying around the towers, but just the same, to those who love her, Paris has been destroyed.

For what is a city except the spirit of its people? It has taken centuries to build up that spirit. How long will it take to restore faith and joy and hope to a people from whom they have been taken so tragically?

I remember, when I was in Paris just before the war, I heard people talking confidently, as if nothing could possibly happen to them. They were not indifferent. They simply did not realize their danger.

Blind to Danger

Now, when I hear Americans talking in the same way, in the very same words even, I find myself shuddering. Americans should wake up to the precariousness of their democratic heritage.

But I think no one wants to believe in dangers or face reality until he has to. That is a weakness of human nature, and like all our human weaknesses, the dictators use it against us. They even take the mistakes and short-comings of democracy and make weapons of them to destroy freedom.

Dictators fight with words as well as guns. That is why it is so gratifying to see that the alien registration, now being conducted by the Department of Justice through the United States post office, is being handled like a matter between host and guest.

WE, THE WOMEN

"Old Married Couple" Is A Tag Easy to Escape

By RUTH MILLETT

After studying the public behavior of honeymooners for four years, a hotel employee recently offered bridegrooms five rules to follow to keep strangers from suspecting their newly married status.

What would seem to be even more important to devise are some rules for long-married men to follow, when with their wives, to keep strangers from always being able to say, "An old married couple."

Paste These in Your Hats

Well, here they are, men: Talk to your wife when you both are eating in a public place. Pay at least as much attention to her as to your food. Even lean toward her a little and watch her when she talks. If you do that no one will suspect you've been married even a year.

If you are in a restaurant where there is dancing—dance with her, and more than one "duty" dance, too. That will throw the guessers off the trail.

Sit close to her at a movie. You might even go so far as to put your arm around her.

Hold hands when walking down the street.

Say It With Flowers

Buy your wife some flowers to pin on her coat. The flowers will shout that you aren't old married folks.

Dress as carefully as you did in your courting days. Appear as if you had taken one last hair-smoothing the adjusting look in the mirror before you started out.

Never let her carry any packages. You may not get such a kick out of fooling the public in this way. But your wife will. If she ever hears people wondering whether you've been married long she'll be the smuggest woman in the world.

WAKE UP YOUR OWN LAXATIVE FLUID

And Maybe You, Too, Will Feel Like "Happy Days Are Here Again"

Do you suffer from constipation? Do you suffer from fatty indigestion below the belt or sick headaches due to constipation? Do you feel weary from being constipated? If so, you may need to buck up the flow of your natural laxative fluid with Carter's Little Liver Pills. Try them according to directions. These pills, made of two simple vegetable medicines, have doubled the flow of this laxative juice in some people as proved by medical tests. Artillerymen Must Learn Care of Their Weapons

One of a series taking a draftee into Uncle Sam's new army.

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — John Q. Citizen may be assigned to the field artillery by his officers, if they find he has had some engineering training or is an expert in laying telephone wires or is familiar with heavy motor vehicles.

Draftees will find the new field tank guns and a battery of eight 75 mm. guns.

Draftees in the first weeks of service will get pretty much the same kind of drill as infantry men. Then they are attached to a gun battery. They learn to maneuver over difficult terrain, to occupy firing positions, to execute any fire mission, to maintain systems of supply and communication and to do these things both by day and by night.

The men designated as cannoners are taught to familiarize themselves with the artillery pieces, to take them apart and put them together again and to load and fire the pieces. Furthermore, they must familiarize themselves with all types of ammunition pertaining to the guns, including safety precautions in using, handling or storing.

Chauffeurs must learn how to maintain the vehicles issued to the battery and how to maneuver them. Drivers must learn the highest skill in riding, handling and care of an artillery pair of horses and the care and adjustment of harness and equipment. In addition, the drivers and chauffeurs must know how to handle the guns and the cannoners must know how to handle the motor vehicles and horses. Some draftees will have to learn the use of fire control instruments, calculation of firing data from instruments and the ability to bring fire to bear on low-flying aircraft.

Artillery is partially mechanized with heavy motorized vehicles for the hauling of heavy guns, but that horses are also still used, especially for hauling lighter pieces.

The main weapon of the field artillery is to be the 105 mm. howitzer when it is produced in quantity to replace the modernized 75 mm. gun. The latter will not be discarded, but will be used as an anti-tank weapon.

The biggest allotment of artillery is to an army brigade, which will have three battalions armed with 12 of the 105 mm. howitzers or the 75 mm. guns, as well as a battery of six 37 mm. anti-tank guns. It will also have a battalion armed with 16 155 mm. howitzers, six 37 mm. anti-

Germans Raid British Cities

Much Damage Reported in Industrial Midlands

BERLIN—(AP)—Far visible fires and explosions, even greater than those that devastated Coventry a week ago, were left raging in Birmingham, Britain's second city, by night-long relays of fighting planes which dropped more than 1,000,000 pounds of bombs; the high command said Wednesday.

Five hundred planes dumped bombs, some of them the greatest size, hour by hour on armament and supply industries of Birmingham, informed military sources said.

LONDON—(AP)—Britain's industrial midlands dug itself out Wednesday from twisted debris left by bombs from hundreds of German raiders which carried out a nine-hour attack Tuesday night in an evident effort to duplicate the devastation of Coventry.

Sparse reports reaching London from one of the hardest hit of some half-dozen raided industrial areas said that in the first hours there was no respite from the continuous fall of bombs and the crash of anti-aircraft guns.

Fires lit up the sky until it was almost as bright as day.

Considering the country as whole, observers said the raid would prove as heavy, if not heavier, than any attack yet made on Britain.

Caustics were expected to be heavy, particularly in two towns. Official descriptions of the damage were confined to a statement that it was extensive.

For the woman tourist who wondered if cattle guards dressed like cowboys, he dug in the first hours there was no respite from the continuous fall of bombs and the crash of anti-aircraft guns.

He also straightened out a man who wanted to find the dam.

"You're standing right on it," Finch explained, impelling the visitor to walk to the other side, look down on the power plants, and remark:

"It'll take a long time to fill this side up."

DUDE COLLEGE

BY OREN ARNOLD

YESTERDAY: Ronnie goes west, registers at Pueblo, meets Dr. Woodrow Wesley York, professor of archaeology. He is young, rather handsome, and easily embarrassed. After her conference, Ronnie flies south, discovers a group of men working, she swoons down on them, is greeted by a burst of gunfire.

THE GIRL WITH A CRUTCH

CHAPTER III
THE man across the table from Andre was scowling.

"A fool you make of yourself," he was saying, "and fortunate for you is the change in plan."

"What do you mean?" Andre asked.

"I got your card. That much was all right, the information. But you would have been called here anyway. An—what is it you call yourself? Andre Girardeau, huh?"

Andre's lips tightened. He hadn't come to Washington to be insulted, and yet he was helpless here.

"After all, Herr Girardeau, if you will, you are to do exactly as you are told. Must I explain what I mean? No. I speak not for myself, you know that. Now at home you were always a soft mark for the women, and here in America you make a name for yourself with the first pretty woman you contact. Do you fancy that is approved?"

"Listen, I—"

"No. You listen. You. Now, you can never work high if you let your attraction for women rule you, Herr—uh—Girardeau, and the newspapers have been picturing you and writing about you and—"

Andre interrupted. "I was not making a fool of myself. I told you the way to get at the father was through the girl. It is he who owns the new bomb sight, remember."

"Ah, the bomb sight!"

"EXACTLY! Already I have seen every inch of the big factory here, and soon I could be intimate with the man himself. Even if I married the girl, it would be good cover."

"If you marry you will never live to be a good husband for long—remember that! But enough; there is work ahead. You go at once to Pueblo, New Mexico."

"But that's where the girl is!" Andre looked squarely at the other man, a squat, pompous, middle-aged man.

"Right. And the father. And the new bomb sight. What better region than a barren desert, to do bombing tests? Eh? We are not asleep, Herr Girardeau. You can go ahead and follow up your heart interest, impersonally. But not too far, mind you. If you are not shrewd—" The man shrugged.

"Do you need any money?"

"Right. Here is a wallet with $20,000 in it. There is no lack of money if the goal is attained, just as there is no question—yet—of your loyalty, but—"

Andre nodded, frowning in impatience. He detested this man who was his superior here. "What am I to do now?"

"Here is a map." They spread a picture of North America and the short man began measuring with a pencil. "You can see that, by good fortune, Pueblo, New Mexico, is at a strategic advantage. The principal border towns such as Brownsville and El Paso, Texas, Nogales and Tia Juana, are in virtual barricade. But where the international line runs through the open desert land—there, that dot is Pueblo, and there is the university too, where the Bailey girl goes. There also do you go."

"All right."

"See, it is just this far to Tampico, and here is Guaymas on the Mexican west coast, and Mazatlan."

"I see."

"That's all, now. You go direct to Pueblo, contact our operative there and get further orders. Here is a ring set with a chrysocolla stone. Wear it for identification. And the other operative there will be feigning a sprained ankle and walking with one crutch."

"A crutch," echoed Andre, nodding.

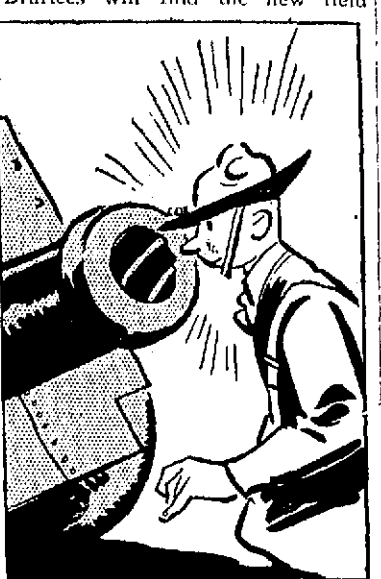

"Right. Your ingenuity will then arrange a meeting."

WHEN the conference was ended and Andre had attended to his banking errand, he reserved a place on the next air transport west. There was time before the take off to telephone New York and have his luggage forwarded.

The air trip was interesting until nightfall, and then because there was no stimulating passengers with whom he might converse, he retired early. Dawn found him in Hachita, New Mexico, waiting for the little side-trip train that would take him to the quaint village of Pueblo and its "Dude College." By 1 p. m. he was on the college campus itself.

From the moment he got to Pueblo he was alert for the man walking with a crutch. Of course, chance might dictate more than one man on a crutch, but the ring would pave the way toward identification, Andre knew. He was in no great hurry.

He even thought of hiring or purchasing a car to drive out to the—what had Ronnie said?—Rocking R Ranch, and seeing

Labor Truce Is Spurned by CIO

John L. Lewis in Bitter Attack Against AFL

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(AP)—A tumultuous session of C. I. O.'s annual convention, whipped into a cheering frenzy during a bitter attack by John L. Lewis against William Green and the A. F. of L. leadership, served notice Tuesday there would be no immediate peace overtures to the rival labor camp.

In a fighting angry mood, Lewis blasted a proposal by Sidney Hillman's Clothing Workers Union for immediate conferences to explore labor peace possibilities.

"It would be a waste of time," he declared, "to raise the hopes of the millions of people in this country by making it appear there is any possibility of peace."

Grayson's Scoreboard

Boxing Board Should Amend Its No-Foul Rule; Give Fins Money Back When They're Clobbered; Al Davis Took No Chance on Becoming Popular

By HARRY GRAYSON

In all the talk about Al Davis' shameful performance against Fritz Zivic at Madison Square Garden the other night, there wasn't one peep about the more than 17,000 guests getting their money back.

Nop that it has been demonstrated that the no-foul rule won't work when there is a young hoodlum in the ring, the Boxing Commission should amend it with a clause calling for a refund when the customers fail to get that for which they paid.

In the case of Bummy Davis, the mistake was permitting him to become prominent enough to fight a champion. His extra-curricular activities were such that he couldn't miss putting promoters and officials in an embarrassing position sooner or later.

The funny part of it is that Davis was on his way to spoiling himself as an attraction as a bad boy—one they wanted to see shellacked—by being a good boy when the blowoff came.

"Though he's got the name of being a boy, no one looks on him as a dirty fighter," remarked Matchmaker Nat Rogers before the show. "Considering that his best bet is a left hook to the body it is a cinch that his knickers, of whom he has more than his share, would be only too ready to start yelling, 'Keep your punches up!' at the slightest excuse."

"Look how they are on so popular performer as Billy Conn. You'd think from the way some of the fans go after Billy that he was deliberately pegging below the belt, which is, of course, absurd."

"No fighter is that much of a fool, for there's little chance of hurting a fellow with a punch below the belt, while a wallop right above the belt line can do plenty of damage. Why deliberately hit a more than likely ineffective blow that can cost you a round?"

"But the fact that none of Davis' punches fall low is plain evidence that he is extra careful to fight cleanly."

Bummy Davis settled all that ended any chance he ever had of becoming popular... by hitting Fritz Zivic low eight times... until he was disqualified. He was trailing, of course.

Matchmaker Rogers can now go back to his button-hole making.

That's one of the many things wrong with professional boxing.

There are too many button-hole makers in it.

1. The navy's chief Pacific base is at Pearl Harbor in the Hawaiian Islands.
2. Admiral Stark is chief of naval operations.
3. Oct. 27 is the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt; advocate of a big navy.

Private Industry's Best Defense

In defending stoutly the American railroad system against possible government operation in defense or war, T. V. Pelley, president of the American Association of Railroads, has hit on the crucial point of the whole question of the relationship between private industry and defense.

"The railroads are ready now to do whatever they may be called upon to do," Pelley told the Association's annual meeting. "The railroads will keep themselves ready, ahead of any demand which may come."

If that proves to be true, the railroads need not worry overmuch about government operation.

What the country wants in the present defense drive is service, and what it must have in event of war, is service. It must have what it wants there would seem no point in government operation of any industry. The American people are apparently still convinced that except in certain special or emergency conditions they prefer their industries privately owned and managed. Only if and when they believe these industries are not producing the results socially desired do they turn to public ownership.

Pelley believes the railroads have learned from their experiences of 1917-1918. He believes they have set up regional boards and other means of co-ordinating their facilities such that the government will get what it needs from them, and get it promptly and without red tape.

Three recent tests show the preparedness of the railroads, according to Pelley. First, the peak freight movement of this year found a nice surplus on hand. Second, during last summer's maneuvers, the railroads moved 40,000 men a day, and did it in better style than they moved an average of 20,000 a day in the peak month of July, 1918. Third, export freight at times this year at one port even exceeded the 1918 peak; and was handled so smoothly that no one noticed it at all.

These are good signs. If other industries can point to a similar ability, readiness and willingness to meet national demands, there will be less talk of nationalization. It is only when industries seem to hold back from the full effort that is being urged on everyone else that talk of nationalization arises.

No good coach takes a player out of the game if he is fighting hard and making good gains at every plunge. It is only the indifferent, sulky, or ineffective player who comes out of the game to make way for a substitute. The best way to keep from being drafted is to volunteer.

1. Is it good manners to ask a friend how much he pays for rent?
2. Is it good manners to insist that a friend who is ill let your doctor "take a look" at him?
3. Is it good manners to ask a doctor or lawyer for professional advice when you meet him socially?
4. Is it a good idea to try to sell to your friends some article that you want to get rid of?
5. Is it best to telephone friends before dropping in on them in the evening?

What would you do if—

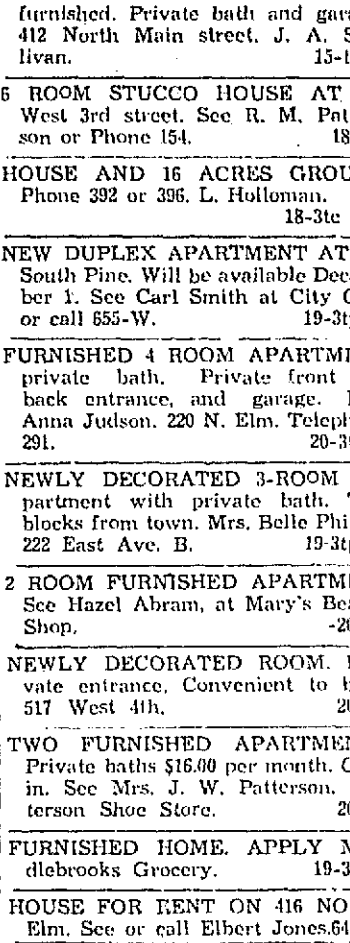

- (a) Friends ask you for a week's visit and when the week is up your hostess urges you to stay longer—
- (b) Stay if you are having a good time?
- (c) Leave, knowing that it is best to leave before you wear out your welcome?

Answers

1. No.
2. No. Though it is all right to recommend your own doctor if you aren't insistent.
3. No. Go to his office if you want his professional advice.
4. No. For it is hard for them to turn you down. Besides, if a friend buys it and feels it was a bad bargain, you may lose a friend.

City Council Meets Tuesday

Routine Business Taken Up in 2nd Monthly Meet

The Hope city council in the second meeting of the month at city hall Tuesday night disposed of regular routine business. All aldermen were present and mayor W. S. Atkins presided over the meeting.

James Pilkinton, appearing in behalf of the Kiwanis club, asked the city to aid in putting up and taking down the Christmas lights this year, a project which the club has sponsored several years. The council commended the Kiwanis club for this work and agreed to aid.

George Robison appeared in behalf of the merchants committee of the Chamber of Commerce, asking that the council take some action in stopping the houses to house peddling of dry goods in the city. The committee was instructed to have the city attorney draw up an ordinance and submit to the council at the next meeting for action.

Judge Asks Increase
Municipal Judge W. K. Lemley asked the council to raise the judge's salary to its former level of $125 per month. He pointed out that this was the only salary which hadn't been restored in city offices. The salaries were cut during the depression. Facts proved that 203 more cases were heard each year than in previous years, making the work of this office rise by one-third. No action was taken on an ordinance which was also presented.

A monthly operating report of the Water & Light Plan was distributed to council members.

Survey Made
A survey, by the city engineer, of the south Elm street flood area showed that work done by the city had not caused the flood during the summer. The council, therefore, rejected a claim previously submitted by Miss Ruth Langford, property holder of that area.

No action was taken on a project proposal to construct a water and light line to city limits on old Highway 67.

Action was deferred on another proposal to construct a water line at an estimated cost of $1,171.50 to the city limits on South Main street a distance of 1,200 feet.

A motion was made and passed to lower an exposed water line from East Ave. D to Hickory street, approximately 3,400. Estimated cost of this improvement is $1,135. Investigation proved that the line was lying on top of the ground in several places and break were frequent.

A survey, made by the city engineer, C. O. Thomas, of a tract of land, on which the city holds an option, for a possible airport site was instructed to be turned over to Chamber of Commerce for presentation to the government of final approval.

E. McFaddin asked the city to let the draft board have an office in the city hall to use in filling out questionnaires. This was granted.

No action was taken on a letter asking the city to relinquish light territory to the Arkansas Power & Light Co. for construction of a light line on old Highway 67 east of Hope.

The county home demonstration agent was granted permission to use a building at Fair park for mattress making.

Motion was made and passed to donate $10 to the Red Cross.

A motion was made that all bills in proper order be paid.

The council rejected a proposal from a negro to operate a taxi for negroes in the city on the grounds that this was not needed.

A resolution was passed granting permission for street improvement district filings, these are filed once each year, be extended until the last of January.

Another resolution to reduce street improvement districts from 4 1/2 per cent per annum to 1 1/2 per cent per annum was adopted.

An ordinance was passed regulating the meat license fees in the city of Hope. This change was made in request of numerous meat dealers, and fees will be paid in accordance with size of the market.

A motion was made and passed to have the expense for making an airport survey be borne by the Water & Light plant.

The city meat inspector gave a monthly report and said that all dairy cattle had been tested for T. B. and that no signs were found.

Farm Bureau Hears Adkins

Governor Promises Farm Parity With Industry

LITTLE ROCK —(AP)— Gov. Elect Homer M. Adkins, in a policy making address before Tuesday morning's session of the Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation convention, promised the farmers all the help possible to put agriculture on a parity with industry.

He reiterated a pledge to carry out campaign promises to remove politics from state institutions and agencies serving agriculture and to see that these institutions have adequate finances.

Describing the Farm Bureau's opposition to two refunding proposals defeated at the general election as "another of your votes of confidence in me," Mr. Adkins told his audience: "Public declarations, made by me, as an official eager to serve you, and by leaders of the Farm Bureau that you have designated as your spokesmen, identify our individual programs as virtually one and the same. Therefore, I say to you as farmers, I can best serve you by earnestly attempting to achieve for you the things that we are agreed should be achieved. And you can best help me to serve you well by organizing yourselves more thoroughly."

Mrs. Roosevelt Can Go Again

President's Wife Is National Issue, Like WPA

By SIGRID ARNE
AP Feature Service Writer

WASHINGTON — These past few months of bitter political wrangling have seen the personality of a woman almost as much of an issue as WPA or TVA.

That has never happened in this country before.

But Eleanor Roosevelt was — and quite probably will continue to be — a national issue.

The lady, herself, went "off the record" for the campaign or as nearly "off the record" as a woman can who is a seasoned political campaigner and who, as does her husband, "likes a good fight."

She went off the record after a dramatic air trip to the Chicago convention in July to make a brief speech. It was hoped her appearance would heal the wounds of that meeting.

The President, in a radio speech to the convention, referred to "my good wife," thereby recognizing publicly among his party workers that his wife is a party force to reckon with, either on or off the record.

Saw More of Family
In 1935, as well as this year, Mrs. Roosevelt took advantage of the campaign to see more of her family. Roosevelt critics pointed out that Mrs. Roosevelt thereby created a picture that certainly couldn't hurt a campaign. But her friends reported that she looks forward to her off-the-record spells with the family.

In spite of her efforts to "lie low," she was an issue.

She was attacked for belonging to the American Newspaper Guild.

That charge brought her "on the record." To the press she stated that no member has a right to leave an organization until he has done his best to make the organization "useful." She added that she would remain in the Guild to fight the Communists.

Some of her New York neighbors donned campaign buttons that read "We don't want Eleanor either." This she ignored.

She was lured out of her political silence again, however, when her son Elliott enlisted in the army and was appointed a captain.

She said, "I think it was the right thing for him to do. He never would have been taken in the draft. You know he is 30, and he has a wife and two children."

New Wardrobe Cue
In the heat of the campaign she took time to buy a fall wardrobe. Six costumes which were called her "campaign outfit." That brought a laugh from her and a restatement that she would take no part in the campaign.

If some of the gallantry toward a lady was missing one one side of the picture, it popped up in a new place — on a picket line.

Her son James was sponsoring a motion picture. The world premier was scheduled for a Philadelphia theater which was picketed by the A. F. of L. musicians' union.

It was supposed that Mrs. Roosevelt would want to be present for her son's sake.

So the union wrote her that it would withdraw the picket line for the opening night if she wanted to attend. She had refused at other times to walk through picket lines.

She solved the tangle by saying she had not planned to attend.

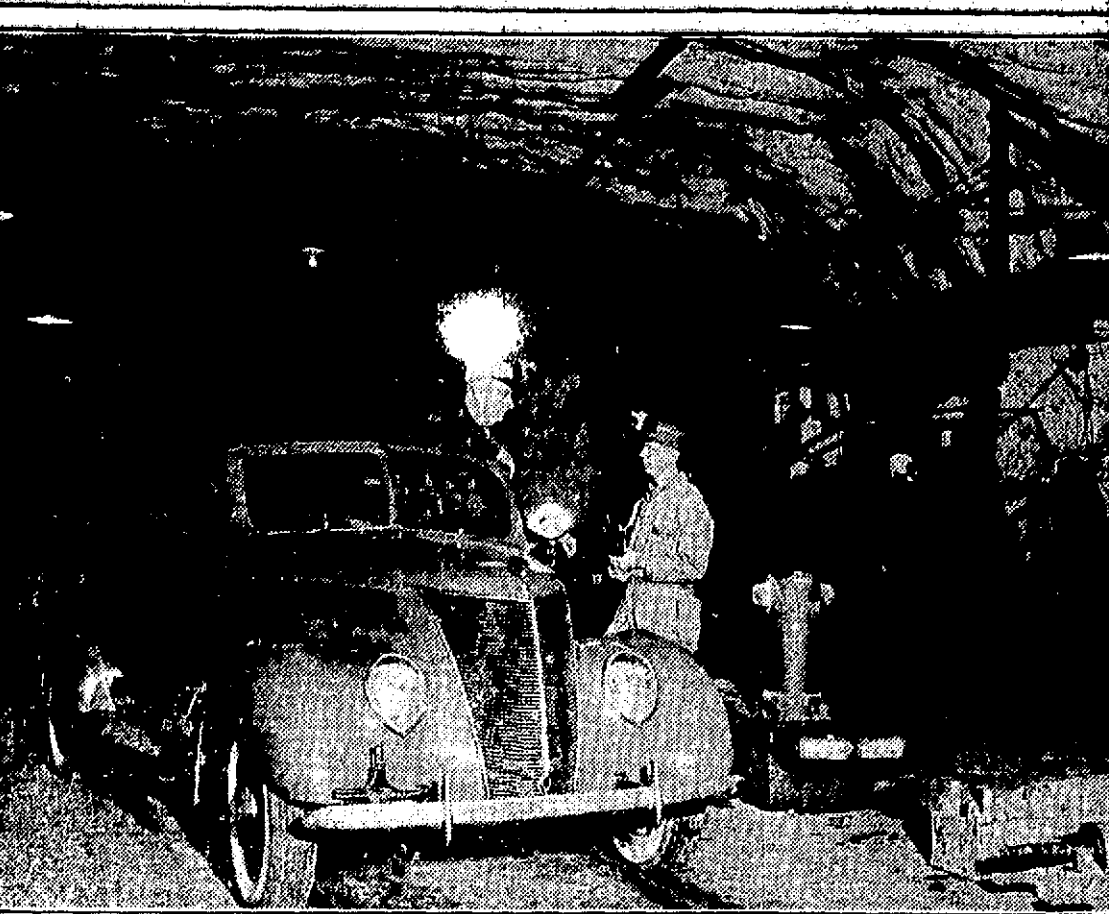

No Change Likely
In the four years to come she is likely to take a lead from her husband's victory speech at Hyde Park when he said, "You will find me the same Franklin Roosevelt you have known for many years."

Eleanor Roosevelt is not likely to drop her constant interest in NYA, housing, food plans, and what not. She takes her appearances seriously, so seriously that she over-rode friends' advice in Washington one day when she had five scheduled appearances and a sixth was asked by a group running off a small charity bazaar.

The place would be crowded, stuffy. She could say "no," and plead an already full program.

She decide to go. Her reason: "You know they'll sell more if I attend. People do continue to show up just to see the President's wife, no matter who she is."

Automobiles at Work a Quarter Mile Underground

DETROIT, Mich. — Automobiles are called upon to perform useful shores in unusual places all over the world, but perhaps one of the strangest locations for motor cars to be in service is a quarter mile below a busy industrial city.

Down where they never feel the rigors of summer heat or wintry blasts, two Ford V-8 convertibles are busy every day in the International Salt Company's Detroit rock salt mine, 1,135 feet underground.

Pictured here is one of the two cars that helped International solve a transportation problem in a mine that has 20 miles of corridors radiating from the bottom of the shaft.

At the wheel is Mine Foreman Edward Vipe, conferring with a workman at the "business end" of a corridor, where a shovel is scooping newly blasted salt into electric cars.

The other car is used by the mechanical trouble shooter in keeping the mine's far-flung machinery in working order.

These cars are probably the only ones in the world thus occupied. At the same time that cars and trucks are moving along the paved streets of Detroit far above, the two Fords roll along smooth all-salt boulevards in a man-made underground city.

Driving always with headlamps on, the pilots of these cars cover 25 miles a day. Temperatures in the mine never vary from 58 degrees the year around.

Both cars retain their original finish. There isn't the slightest trace of rust or corrosion, despite the fact that they are surrounded by solid salt that is 98.3 per cent pure. License plates? They aren't needed for cars in this underground city.

In Zululand, crocodiles are "farmed" in an enclosed stretch of river. The eggs laid by the reptiles on the sandy banks of the stream are collected each morning and sold to naturalists throughout the world.

Adjournment Is Lost in House

Administration Loses by Vote of 191 to 148

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The house refused to end this session of congress Tuesday, voting by a 191-to-148 vote a feeling that so long as the foreign crisis continues congress should stay on the job.

Democratic leaders, who brought up the adjournment resolution, thus suffered an outright defeat on the first test of their strength since the election of two weeks ago. Their reverse was caused by the defection of 44 Democrats. These, including particularly Democrats from the West, joined a solid Republican minority.

President Roosevelt told reporters the vote did not make any difference to him. He has said the question was one for congress to decide.

Asked whether he would find something for congress to do, he replied merely that more army and navy promotions were coming along all the time. No additional defense measures were in prospect, he said.

A result of the vote was that the senate was held in session to face a decision on the controversial Walter-Logan bill. Under the Constitution, neither house can adjourn or recess for more than three days without the consent of the other.

The Walter-Logan bill, passed by the house, would facilitate court appeals from the decisions of such government agencies as the Labor Board and the Securities Commission.

23 Openings at CCC Camp Here

Will Make Total of 106 New Men Since September

Twenty-three men will be enrolled Monday, November 25, at Alton CCC camp, the vacancies being understudy jobs such clerks and truck drivers, permanently stationed here.

Lieutenant Jack G. Cornett, camp commander, announced Wednesday.

Men wishing to apply for these jobs should report to Mrs. Sally Broening, county welfare director, at the Hempstead county courthouse.

With the new enrollees of Monday the Alton camp will have added a total of 106 men since September, including 40 men transferred back here from other camps in the Ninth Corps area, Lieutenant Cornett said.

Protector for Women
Every day, women are finding the headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition are relieved by CARDUI. It usually increases appetite, livens flow of gastric juices and so improves digestion. Thus it helps to build resistance to periodic distress for many. Others find help for periodic distress by taking CARDUI a few days before and during "the time." CARDUI has been popular for over 50 years.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisons out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 60 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

processors do not pay the levy themselves but pass it back to the consumer."

"In the end," he added, "we may find ourselves taking a combination of the alternatives I have outlined. What farmers ask of a program is that it works and get results."

Oscar Johnston
Oscar Johnston, Scott, Miss., president of the National Cotton Council, briefly outlined the purposes of the council in introducing Mr. Aldrich.

Saying there can be no surplus of cotton as long as there are men, women and children wearing ragged clothes in America, Mr. Johnston said the fault lies in "our system of distribution."

Farmers have made no effort to stimulate the demand for cotton, he said, and that is one of the chief functions of the council. The council played an important part in the recent domestic consumption this year, he said.

President Short announced that National President Edward O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau Federation had informed him that the Arkansas congressional delegation "had gone down the line" with organized agriculture's program in congress.

Representative W. F. Norrell of the Sixth district was introduced.
